- Good performance in IGCSE;
- Excellent university destinations;
- Holistic education (variety of extracurriculars activities) and strong emphasis on values;
- Diverse and inclusive community;
- Modern facilities and resources;
- Experienced and qualified staff;
- Personalised system for organising grades and predictive analysis of each student.

OPPORTUNITIES

- Leverage existing and future partnerships and collaborations;
- Capitalise on emerging educational trends;
- Expand engagement with the local community;
- Expansion and diversification of programmes.

Competitor differentials and marketing strategies:

- Founded in 1926, it is the first British school in Latin America to be recognised by the UK government, which gives it prestige and experience.
- The school emphasises its welcoming community and the holistic development of its students.
- St Paul's uses its website and other channels to communicate its value proposition and attract students/parents.

WEAKNESSES

- High tuition fees;
- Potential for perceptions of entitlement;
- Location in a major city with possible disadvantages;
- Limitations on infrastructure for expansion;
- Parents miss a platform for monitoring their children's academic performance;
- The school offers few scholarships.

THREATS

- Competition from other international schools;
- Economic factors and accessibility of clients can change over time and affect access to the school;
- Changing educational regulations in Brazil (innovative curriculum);
- Demographic trends;
- Global events and crises;
- Risks of negative publicity or reputational damage.

COMPETITORS

St Paul's School competes with other top international schools in São Paulo, including:

- Avenues São Paulo: Offers an international curriculum and has high tuition fees.
- Graded - The American School of São Paulo: Another expensive American school in the capital.
- The British College of Brazil: Also offers a British curriculum and IB.
- Chapel School: While Chapel School follows an American model, St Paul's offers the British curriculum combined with the Brazilian one.
